OK, this but add yellow to address her request to get an embargoed copy?

On December 19, 2016 EPA announced the first 10 chemicals for risk evaluation under amended TSCA. EPA previously indicated we would publish a scope document within 6 months after initiation of a risk evaluation, or by June 19, 2017. EPA has determined not to publish these scope documents on June 19, but rather to hold them to be released concurrently with the Prioritization and Risk Evaluation process rules, (i.e., the Framework Rules). The Framework Rules are required to be published on June 22, 2017, one year after the statute was signed into law, and lay out the process by which EPA will designate a priority chemical for risk evaluation, and the subsequent risk evaluation process (including scoping)

- 1) For my own planning purposes only, would you tell me whether all 10 risk evaluation scoping documents, which are supposed to come out today (per Lautenberg deadline) will be coming out today? Or, will they come out later, and if so when?
- 2) Regardless of when they are coming out, would it be possible to get copies on an embargoed basis? i.e. I write nothing; we in my office share them with no one, until they are released by EPA?
